The Women's Wellness Center at Integrity House provides a comprehensive scope of services to address the unique needs of women in recovery and their families, and educates community stakeholders on the realities of addiction and recovery.

In a safe space that facilitates the eight dimensions of wellness -- environmental, financial, intellectual, occupational, physical, social, emotional, and spiritual -- the Center offers:

- outreach, assessment & recovery services
- women & children support services
- health & prenatal services
- housing support services
- mental health services
- peer support & life skills development
- community engagement, wellness & recreational activities
- education & employment services
- financial management services
